Use this multi-sided journal entry to record your thoughts on the events that unfolded in the film, Black and Blue. The first column lists an event. In the second column, put yourself in the shoes of Willis Ward and write what you think he may have written in a journal as a response to that event. In the third column, imagine what Gerald Ford may have written. The last column is for you to record your own response. Your response may tell your own reaction to what happened, it may be a connection to something else you have experienced, read, or heard about, or it may be a question you have about the event.
